

Breaking Down Lincoln Riley's High-Powered 2024 Oklahoma Offense

Lincoln Riley's Oklahoma Sooners have been one of the most dominant offensive teams in college football in recent years, and there's no reason to believe that will change in 2024. Riley is one of the most innovative offensive minds in the game, and he has a wealth of talent to work with in Norman.

Here's a breakdown of what to expect from the Sooners' offense in 2024:

The Sooners return a lot of talent on offense, including quarterback Caleb Williams, running back Eric Gray, and wide receivers Marvin Mims and Theo Wease. Williams is one of the most dynamic playmakers in the country, and he's only going to get better in his second year as a starter. Gray is a bruising runner who can also catch passes out of the backfield, and Mims and Wease are two of the best receivers in the Big 12.

In addition to their returning starters, the Sooners also have a number of talented newcomers who could make an impact in 2024. Running back TreVonte Citizen was a five-star recruit in the 2023 class, and he could be a major contributor in the Sooners' backfield. Wide receiver Tony Grimes is another five-star recruit who could make an immediate impact.

Riley's offense is known for its up-tempo pace and its ability to spread the ball around to multiple playmakers. The Sooners will continue to use a lot of spread formations in 2024, and they'll also mix in some run-pass options.

Riley is also a master of play-calling, and he's always looking for ways to create mismatches. He's not afraid to take risks, and he's always willing to try new things.

The Sooners' offense has a lot of strengths, but here are a few of the most notable:

- Quarterback play: Williams is one of the best quarterbacks in the country, and he's only going to get better in 2024. He's a great passer and a dangerous runner, and he's capable of making big plays.
- Wide receivers: The Sooners have a deep and talented group of wide receivers, led by Mims and Wease. Mims is a big-play threat, and Wease is a possession receiver who can also make big plays.
- Offensive line: The Sooners' offensive line is one of the best in the country. They're big, strong, and physical, and they're able to create running lanes and protect the quarterback.

The Sooners' offense doesn't have many weaknesses, but here are a few things that they could improve on:

- Running game: The Sooners' running game was a bit inconsistent in 2023, and they'll need to be more consistent in 2024. Gray is a good runner, but he needs to be more productive.
- Pass protection: The Sooners' offensive line is good, but they could improve their pass protection. Williams is a mobile quarterback, but he needs to be able to sit in the pocket and make throws when necessary.
- Red zone offense: The Sooners' red zone offense was a bit inefficient in 2023, and they'll need to be more efficient in 2024. They need to be able to convert more red zone opportunities into touchdowns.

The Sooners' offense is one of the most explosive in the country, and they're poised to be even better in 2024. Riley is one of the best offensive minds in the game, and he has a wealth of talent to work with in Norman. The Sooners will be a major threat to win the national championship in 2024.
