Performing Poems

At Randall School, Lola and her classmates enjoyed watching some actors performing poems. The actors moved around and made the poems come alive. All of the students wanted the show to go on and on. They had no idea that poetry could be so much fun.

Students Onstage

Lola and some of her classmates wondered about performing poems themselves. They knew many poems and had written some of their own. (And they felt like sharing their poems with their classmates!) In this chapter, you can learn how to perform your own poems.

From "The Cat Who Ate the Homework" to "The Sneezing Elephant," each poem is a masterpiece of silliness, encouraging children to embrace their inner comedians and express themselves with confidence.

Unleashing Creativity and Self-Expression

Beyond entertainment, Children Performance Poetry fosters creativity and self-expression in young children. These poems provide a safe and supportive environment for them to explore their imaginations, develop their language skills, and express their unique perspectives.

By encouraging children to perform these poems in front of an audience, they gain invaluable experience in public speaking, communication, and self-assurance.

A Treasure for Memory-Making

Children Performance Poetry is not just a book of poems; it's a catalyst for creating cherished memories. Whether it's a school assembly, a family gathering, or a rainy afternoon, these poems will bring smiles, laughter, and a sense of togetherness.

As children perform these poems, they create memories that will last a lifetime. From the nervous giggles to the thunderous applause, every moment shared through poetry becomes a precious keepsake.
